Sleep as every parent knows is central to kids' well being. There are three main sleep in children. falling asleep, staying asleep and being too sleepy during the daytime. Every parent experiences at least one of them at some point or the other. Perhaps because of this and because sleepless nights have come to be regarded as normal, we fail to appreciate just how important sleep is for our children's health. In fact, sleep has a major impact on their physical development and growth. Research has shown that children who do not sleep as much as they should are smaller than they ought to be. But the impact of sleep is not just physical.

Sleep also has a profound influence on children's behavior, emotions and ability to learn. As a result children's sleep disorders are not often recognized as such and they may be referred to hospitals for treatment of behavioral problems. And what is completely counter-intuitive is that many of those with attention deficit hyperactivity disorder (ADHD) also experience daytime sleepiness as revealed by something called a multiple sleep latency test. Another common problem is obstructive sleep apnoea. Children with this respiratory condition will be awake up to 12 hours a day making them severely sleep deprived.

(6X10=60)

I. (A) Read the following passage carefully any answer the questions that follow: (5)

One of the greatest delusions of modern times is the prevailing belief that we are more civilized than our ancestors. At no other period in the history of mankind has the word "Civilization" been so often misused and misunderstood. It is not in the abundance of material goods alone that civilization lies. Neither does it consist in the advance of scientific knowledge. However amazing it may be. The inventions and discoveries of science have undoubtedly brought unheard of blessings and comforts to us. But they are not civilisation. What we have failed to see is that civilization is a special way of human behavior, of thought and feeling. The essential quality of civilization lies in the spirit of man, in his attitude to himself, to his fellowmen and to life as a whole, Looking everywhere around us today, you will find that man has made no progress since the dawn of history, in his attitude towards his fellowmen. On all the highest pillars in the cities of the world, you will find the figure of a conquerer or a general soldier, we know far more about our killers and destroyers than about our saviours and saints, The heroes of the world are the heroes of war.

P.T.O.

Q.1. According to the passage what does civilization consist of?

- a) Invention and discoveries
- b) Possession of goods
- c) Advanced scientific knowledge
- d) Man's attitudes and behavior

- b) Material comforts
- c) Knowledge
- d) Civilization

Q.3. What does the word delusion mean?

- a) real truth
- b) wrong belief
- c) correct statement
- d) misplaced interests

Q.4. Why doesn't the author think that we are more civilized than our ancestors?

- a) We possess advanced scientific knowledge
- b) We consider conquerors our heroes
- c) We have abundance of material comforts
- d) We respect our saints and saviors

Q.5. The main purpose of the passage is to convey the idea that:

- a) Modern man is more advanced in scientific knowledge
- b) We are in more comfortable position than our ancestors
- c) Modern man does not possess any different attitudes than his ancestors
- d) We respect our heroes of war, our conquerors.

(B) Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow by choosing the correct answer from the given choices:-
